Land Office Inquiry Killed In Legislature

BILL WOULD VEST LEASE AUTHORITY IN REGENTS OF U

Fixes Royalty Percentage and Rental Clause For University Oil Lands

THREE BILLS WOULD AID LIQUOR TRAFFIC FIGHT

Measure To Stop Construction Of Dams For Waterpower Plants in Texas

AUSTIN, Jan. 14 (P)—The Storey-Pool Texas university land lease bill which practically would remove authority for negotiating mineral land leases from land office to the board of regents, was routed tonight to a sub-committee after a conference of the house committee on public lands and sponsors of the measure.

The proposed university land lease bill provides that mineral leases shall be disposed of only when it is "reasonably apparent" that products may be sold at a price equal to their value, that no bid shall be accepted which offers royalty less than 1-8 and every bid carries with it an obligation of $1 acre to constitute a rental for delay in production.

AUSTIN, Jan. 14 (P)—Three bills framed to aid in stamping out liquor traffic in Texas were brought today before the house by Representative Graves of Georgetown.

One would make the unlawful drinking of an intoxicant in any public place punishable by from $10 to $100. A companion bill would prohibit drunkenness in any public place or near any private home and stipulated sentence from 5 to 10 days in jail and a fine of $100 for the offense.

The third would amend the search and seizure act, giving the jury right to define whether or not a search was unreasonable.

AUSTIN, Jan. 14 (P)—A proposal to stop further construction of dams in waterpower plants in Texas was placed before the house today by Representative Jenkins of Brownwood in a bill which declared Texas waters are needed for irrigation.

The bill would cancel all existing permits for dams not finished and in cases where money has been spent in preparing plans, foundations, etc., the money would be repaid to holders of permits.

AUSTIN, Jan. 14 (P)—A bill which would ban fraternities and sororities in all state educational institutions is being prepared by Senator Thomason of Nacogdoches, a graduate of Texas university.

Thomason said he had no prejudice against fraternities but believed they injured the social structure of the institutions.

One would make the unlawful drinking of an intoxicant in any public place punishable by from $10 to $100. A companion bill would prohibit drunkenness in any public place or near any private home and stipulated sentence from 5 to 10 days in jail and a fine of $100 for the offense.

BOOTH'S REPLY ON RETIREMENT IS KEPT SECRET

Both Sides Not To Know Army Commander's Decision Until Today

LONDON, Jan. 14 (P)—Action determining whether General Bramwell Booth shall continue as commander of the Salvation Army probably will come tomorrow, leaders of both factions of the organization believe.

The general's reply to the suggestion he retire was delivered late today at his villa on the Thames.

Both sides said they were "completely in the dark" as to whether the aged leader would make a counter move against retirement.

In well informed Army circles it was stated that if the general's reply is a refusal to retire, he would be summarily removed by the high council and it was expected that this action might come tomorrow.

It was understood that all edition of "The War Cry," the official publication of the Army, which would have gone to press tonight, throughout the world, had been asked to hold their forms open until tomorrow midnight with the expectation that the adjudication of the general's position would be completed by that hour.

"Should the general decline to retire, you may take it that the high council will proceed on its way," one high official said. "I have no doubt that there will be a majority in favor of declaring the general unfit to hold his office because of his health. The council has been very carefully advised and is satisfied as to its legal position. Should the general challenge its action, the matter probably would go to the courts for settlement."

LEASE LITIGATION MAY CONTINUE

Injunction Suit Against Robison Scheduled to Open Today

AUSTIN, Jan. 14 (P)—Although the University of Texas land and mineral rights have been withdrawn from the market by statute enacted by the present legislature and signed by the governor last Friday, litigation over the 103,000 acres which were to have been sold on January 2, may continue.

The injunction suit against J. T. Robison, land commissioner, is set in district court for tomorrow. Commissioner Robison said he would be ready to start into the hearing on the question of making the injunction permanent. Assistant Attorney General C. W. Trueheart, acting for the state, which, joined by the university regents, brought the suit, said he did not know what would be the status of the case in the face of latest developments.

Although he said he had not seen a copy of the law repealing the statute of 1925, which authorized the land commissioner to advertise for sale of oil and gas in university lands, he gave it as his opinion he could not return the bid now in his office as directed by the Hornsby bill, as long as the temporary injunction issued on January 1 is pending against him.

The Hornsby bill directs the land commissioner to return all bids together with remittances to the bidders without making a record of them in the land office, specifically mentioning the sale of January 2, which was stopped by injunction.

DEADLOCK OVER TREATY LOOMING IN U. S. SENATE

Two-Party Group Demands Interpretation of Kellogg Peace Pact

NO AGREEMENT MADE TO LIMIT ARGUMENTS

"Round Robin" Taken By Republican-Democratic Interpretation Group

WASHINGTON, N. Jan. 14 (P)—After an hour of discussion the senate failed to reach an agreement today to limit debate on the Kellogg anti-war treaty beginning tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (P)—An ominous deadlock, unyielding to White House concern, gripped more tightly the Kellogg anti-war treaty in the senate today, threatening both the pact and the cruiser construction bill.

Fortified with a "round robin" petition bearing twenty-four signatures, the Republican-Democratic group demanding an interpretation of the treaty in connection with American adherence, decided in a Sabbath day conference to hold their ground against efforts to limit debate.

This decision was reached despite stubborn opposition to the proposal for an interpretation by President Coolidge, who called in on Saturday night Senator Bingham, Republican of Connecticut, one of the sponsors of the petition.

Unconcerned by the round robin petition for the interpretative report by the foreign relations committee on the treaty, Chairman Borah of the committee prepared today to renew his request of limitation of debate on the treaty.

More Delay Seen.
The "interpretationists" have announced that request will not be allowed. This means more delay on a vote on ratification but Senator Borah realizes also it means more delay in getting to the cruiser construction bill in which he is not so much interested but which the "interpretationists" almost to a man, are very anxious to get to. So the treaty advocates were content to hold against the interpretation and let things take their course.

Meanwhile, the president, who is concerned for both ratification of the treaty and passage of the cruiser bill, is doing the worrying. But he is just as anxious that no manner of reservation be attached to America's adherence to the treaty which his secretary of state was so instrumental in negotiating. He insists that even a report by the foreign relations committee would amount to a reservation.

Senator Bingham stood his ground against this contention and argued just as firmly that under practices of international law a committee report interpreting a nation's position under a treaty could not be regarded as a reservation.

Want Formal Report.
The round robin petitioners ask that the foreign relations committee draw up a formal report on the treaty embodying the views expressed in senate debate by Chairman Borah that America's right of self-defense is not abrogated or embarrassed by the treaty nor is her Monroe Doctrine infringed upon in any way.

Unless that request is allowed, the petitioners assert their belief that it will be necessary to adopt a resolution of interpretation such as has been proposed by Senator Moses, Republican of New Hampshire.

While Senators Bingham, Moses and Reed, Democrat of Missouri, who are circulating the petition, are confident of getting more than one-third of the membership to sign the petition—the necessary votes to defeat ratification of the treaty—they disclaim any intention of defeating ratification.

Likewise, treaty advocates are smiling at the petition, confident of votes to ratify the pact and of the votes to invoke the cloture rule limiting debate if a filibuster develops. They insist that many of the signers of the petition, whose names have not been divulged, will stand in the way of ratification of the treaty.

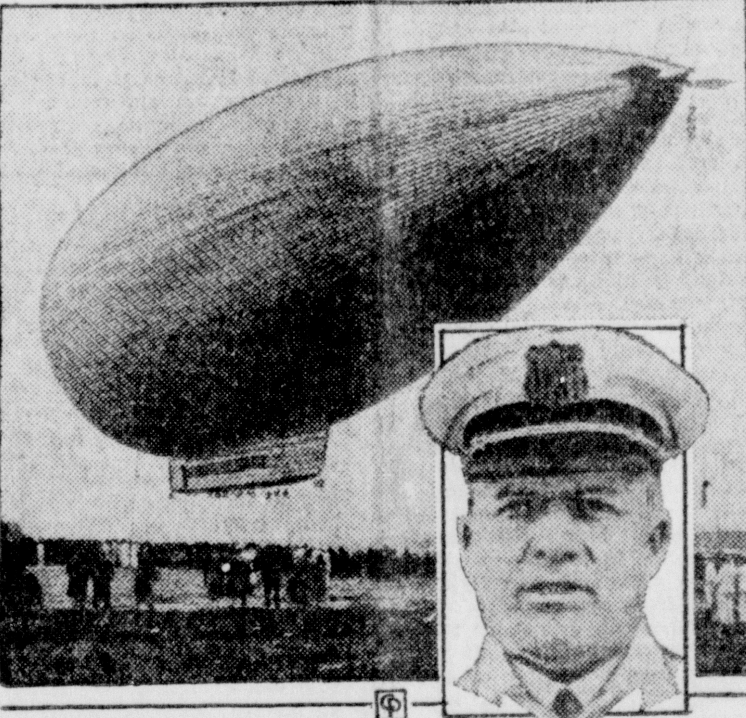

BUSINESS BLOCK IN OKLAHOMA TOWN BURNS

TULSA, Ok., Jan. 14 (P)—Climaxing a series of mysterious fires during the last five years the one business block of Catoosa, a small town of Rogers county, was destroyed early today by a blaze which originated in a mercantile store, the chief building of the town.

Damage was estimated at about $50,000.

The fact that the plate glass in the mercantile store was broken outward before the fire gained headway led residents to believe the fire was started by an intruder in the store.

INVESTIGATION OF GOVERNOR BEGUN

Pardoning By Johnston of Convicted Slayer First Phase Of Inquiry

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 14 (P)—Investigation of the office of Governor H. S. Johnston by a committee of the house started late today with an inquiry into a pardon granted last December to Dewey Crosswairthe, convicted slayer.

The committee's first witness was R. G. Lovejoy, Oklahoma City brother of Selma Lovejoy, young teacher killed by Crosswairthe.

Lovejoy testified that when he learned the convicted slayer had been pardoned he visited the governor's mansion to protest.

"After the governor listened to my story, he said it was the first time he had heard all the facts, that he had been deceived and the pardon was the worst mistake he had ever made," Lovejoy testified.

Although listed on state penitentiary records as an escaped convict, Crosswairthe was pardoned by Governor Johnston on December 28, 1928.

Crosswairthe was convicted of slaying his sweetheart in Oklahoma City in 1912 and was sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary. He was granted a parole in 1923 by J. C. Walton, who was impeached and removed from the governor's office later that year. Although Walton revoked the parole, he granted Crosswairthe a six months leave of absence, from which he did not return.

Governor Johnston admitted to newspaper men that he granted Crosswairthe a pardon on the representation of attorneys and that he did not investigate the convict's record, personally, although he had assigned the task to an employee of his office.

ONE MAN CRIME WAR IS ENDED IN GUN BATTLE

Evidence Piles Up Illegally Connecting Dallas Man With Capital Crimes

DALLAS, Jan. 14 (P)—While William Pruett, 28, lay on his cot in a jail hospital ward tonight, evidence continued to pile up, allegedly connecting him with a series of crimes that have had the city on edge for days.

Charged with the robbery of a drug store on the night of January 3, Pruett has been identified by one witness as the bandit who killed William Mann, 17, high school student, while presumably trying to rob Mann of his auto and by others as the one who robbed them with a gun.

Pruett was captured after a gun fight with detectives after he had been cornered in the attic of a house here Sunday afternoon.

DALLAS, Jan. 14 (P)—Immediate investigation by the Dallas county grand jury into a series of robberies, shootings and slayings, charged against William (Dagger) Pruett, 28, who was wounded twice in a gun fight with detectives before he was captured yesterday, was ordered today by District Attorney William McGraw.

Only one charge, that of robbing the Swiss Avenue Pharmacy of $238 on January 3, had been filed against Pruett, but several persons were reported to have identified him as the perpetrator of a series of robberies.

The two wounds Pruett suffered in the gun fight yesterday were thought not to be serious, physicians declaring he would recover. Pruett was wounded when two rifle bullets, fired through the ceiling in a southeast Dallas cottage, at 4336 Tenth street, struck him in the legs. He previously had slightly wounded detective Will Fritz. Fritz was shot in the arm, and splinters from a bullet punctured Pack's face.

ITALY AND PAPAL SEE MAY SETTLE ROMAN QUESTION

Controversy Which Has Hung Fire Since Unification of Italy Nears Ends

INDEMNITY AND CESSION OF LAND ARE INVOLVED

Dates From Fall Of Temporal Power and Annexation of Papal States

ROME, Jan. 14 (P)—It appears that the vexed Roman question is about to be solved.

Negotiators who worked with the knowledge of the Holy See and the Italian government, but without full authority, have agreed on territorial as well as financial conditions. The question is now for the pope and premier to accept these conclusions and decide means of carrying them out.

The agreement is based on cession by Italy to the Holy See of a small extent of territory near Vatican gardens and payment of an indemnity of $52,532,500. This would compensate for church properties taken by Italy in 1870 by annexation of the Papal states.

The so-called Roman question, involving the relationship between the Vatican and the Italian government, has been a thorny problem ever since the end of the Vatican's temporal power in 1870 at the time of the unification of Italy.

With the entrance of Italian troops into Rome in 1870 after the departure of the French guard, Pope Pius IX saw the fall of temporal power and later refused to accept the law of guarantees adopted by the Italian senate in 1871 concerning the prerogatives of the Holy See and the relations between the state and church in Italy.

Since that time the delicate problem has remained unsettled although numerous efforts have been made to bring about an agreement.

It appeared for a time that the year 1928 might see an agreement reached for it was known early in February of that year that negotiations were in progress, which had reached a very definite stage.

At the beginning of 1927, Premier Mussolini, speaking on the Roman question, said:

"It must be concluded and settled by next Easter."

Associated Press dispatches of February, 1928, said unforeseen circumstances prevented a solution by the Easter of 1927 notwithstanding a willingness of both sides and the efforts of the chief negotiator, the Rev. Father Tacchi-Venturi, who was described as remaining in the dark, almost unknown.

The Rev. Father Tacchi-Venturi, who knew Premier Mussolini before the latter had assumed his high office, came into close touch with him a few months after the advent of the Fascist regime, having been chosen by Pope Pius XI to negotiate the purchase of the ancient library contained in the Chigi palace.

PROBE DEATH OF MRS. BABE RUTH

Body Found in Denist's Home Which Was Destroyed By Fire

WATERTOWN, Mass., Jan. 14 (P)—Dr. Edward H. Kinder, Boston dentist, appeared voluntarily at Watertown police headquarters today to submit to questioning regarding his relations with Mrs. George Herman Ruth, wife of Babe Ruth, home run king. Mrs. Ruth, who was burned to death in a fire in Dr. Kinder's home Friday night, had been known to neighbors as Mrs. Helen Kinder.

The police said that no charges had been made against Dr. Kinder, but that they wished to examine him in regard to property of Mrs. Ruth which was in the apartment which she had occupied with the dentist.

Although Medical Examiner West, who made an examination of Mrs. Ruth's body after the fire, reported that there were no evidences of alcohol, drugs or foul play, Thomas P. Woodford, a brother of Mrs. Ruth said that he was "not at all satisfied with the police explanation of the circumstances" attending the death of his sister.

Both he and his brother, William J. Woodford, demanded a thorough investigation, expressing belief that the police had not cleared all the facts behind the tragedy.

COLD WAVE OVER MIDDLE WEST IS WORST IN YEARS

Sub-Zero Temperatures and Severe Snow Storm Cause Death and Suffering

CHICAGO, Jan. 14 (P)—The middle west was locked tonight in the icy grip of one of the most severe cold waves and the worst snow storms in recent years.

Sub zero temperatures that yesterday broke records of 40 years were followed today by a snow storm that continued from dawn until dark and was expected to last until tomorrow.

The storm and cold night had accounted for the death of half a dozen persons and suffering for thousands of others, blocked highways, hampered rail transportation and impaired wire communication facilities.

One of the low thermometer readings of the week-end was at Duluth, where a minus 34 was the coldest the Minnesota city at the head of Lake Superior has had in eleven years. Green Bay, Wis., was another frigid spot with twenty below, while temperatures throughout the Middle West, with hardly an exception, skated under the cipher mark yesterday and last night.

Chicago had an official 16 below, with some suburban thermometers showing as low as minus 17.

Cary, Ill., was believed to have been the coldest spot in the state Sunday when the temperature hit 22 below during a ski meet. At Pana the snow and unusual cold brought out sleighs for the first time in a quarter of a century.

New Low Eastern Marks

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (P)—The mercury fell to new low marks for the winter in the eastern part of the country today.

A sharp drop in temperature, accompanied by snow, brought sub-zero weather to many points in New York state, while in western Pennsylvania thermometer readings were close to the zero mark.

Stony Creek had the lowest temperature in New York state with 12 below zero. At Ogdensburg, where it was 11 below zero. The St. Lawrence river froze over for the first time this winter.

HOUSE COMMITTEE DEFEATS MEASURE BY SEVEN TO FOUR

Fails in Committee To Investigate Other Officers Involved

LEGISLATORS ENGAGE IN ACRIMONIOUS ARGUMENTS

Lieutenant Governor Casts Vote Tabling Measure Subject To Call In Senate

AUSTIN, Jan. 14 (P)—Attorneys for Gibson and Johnson and Charles Renaud, Abilene oil men who already have intervened in the Texas university oil lands injunction suit, filed an amended motion in intervention today in which they ask the court to restrain Land Commissioner J. T. Robison from returning their bids for the lease sale which was to have taken place January 2.

AUSTIN, Jan. 14 (P)—The proposed investigation of the state land office met a crushing 7 to 4 defeat in the public lands committee today but fared a little better in the senate where, after a debate lasting all morning, the measure was tabled but is subject to call.

The debate in both instances was acrimonious and that in the house committee at times suggested that the scope of the proposed inquiry be widened to include the governor's office, attorney general's office and the regents of the University of Texas and all other parties involved in the controversy over lands.

This suggestion which came in an amendment offered by Representative Anderson of San Antonio, was beaten 9 to 2.

The senate was deadlocked on the motion offered by Joe M. Moore of Greenville, co-author of the resolution, but Barry Miller, presiding officer, broke the 13-13 tie by casting his ballot in the affirmative.

Opponents of the Moore proposal planned to introduce a substitute motion referring the proposed investigation to the senate and house committees on lands rather than to a special joint investigating committee.

Moore asserted that he and Senator A. J. Wirtz of Seguin, co-author of the resolution, wished to make further investigations and to incorporate their findings in the resolution before submitting it to a vote.

Vote on the Moore motion, which was not regarded as an exact lineup of investigation and anti-investigation forces, showed Senators Deberry, Greer, Hardin, Hyer, Martin, McFarlane, Miller, Pollard, Thomason, Westbrook, Williamson, and Rusek, voting with Moore.

Sensors Beck, Berkeley, Cunningham, Gahner, Holbrook, Hornby, Neal, Parrish, Small, Stevenson, Witt, Woodul and Woodward voted "no" on the question.

Sensor Moore took the position that the investigation resolution was "my baby" and he had the right to dispose of it as he saw fit. Senator Woodward admitted that the resolution was the Greenville senator's "baby" but he asserted that Moore was "prescribing the wrong medicine for it."

As on Saturday, Senator Holbrook of Galveston opposed legislative examination. Speaking of the proposed investigation of the administration of J. T. Robison, land commissioner, Senator Holbrook said that it "can have no purpose but to reflect on the character of an honorable, upright resident of the state."

"Do you want to help the state or add pain and sorrow to this old man?" he thundered. "The resolution does not contain a single iota of proof or well-founded suspicion of wrongdoing."

Answering Senator Holbrook, Senator Moore said that "If I didn't have evidence to believe that the senate and house of representatives ought to investigate the land office, I wouldn't have written the resolution."

At another time Senator Moore said that his resolution should not be interpreted to reflect directly or indirectly on Robison. "The resolution of the Greenville senator asserted that he had heard rumors that school lands were being sacrificed for $2 or $3 which ought to bring many times that price. He asked a colleague if he had not heard of 'peculiar circumstances' in connection with the transfer of certain land."

Sensor J. W. Stevenson of Victoria compared the proponents of the investigation to "a fisherman who was without bait." He said that such an examination was bound to create mistrust of the conduct of the land office.

"Such suspicion already exists in my district," Senator Moore interrupted. "It does not in mine," the Victoria senator retorted.

WAUKEHA, Wis., Jan. 14 (P)—Gilda Gray, dancer and movie actress, today was granted a divorce from her husband, Gil Hoag of New York, by Judge C. M. Davison in Circuit court here.

The LOW-DOWN

Place: Grand.
Film: "The Wedding March."
Stars: Erich Von Stroheim, Fay Wray.
What a disappointment. We dropped in at the Grand yesterday afternoon expecting to see one of the finest films of the year and instead we saw a butchered, meaningless conglomeration of scenes and subtitles. "The Wedding March," as presented, is nothing more than the result of a film editor's busy afternoon with the scissors. Sequence after sequence is apparently cut out and the picture is disconnected from start to finish. Paramount producers say "The Wedding March" as shot on the lots was much too long a film to show in a movie theatre, consequently this necessitated plenty of cutting in the cutting room to bring it down to showing length. As it is the film consists of 14 reels, just twice as long as the average picture. What a pity that such had to happen, as one viewing this production can easily see what ambitious ideas were utterly wasted.
Erich Von Stroheim, as the hero, looked greatly miscast as he is much too old to play the part of the flighty, wild, fickle prince. To us, he looked as old as his parents in the cast. Von Stroheim is obviously an artist of the first degree. However he must have different roles than he portrays in "The Wedding March." Fay Wray does nobly with what small chance she has but she is kept too far in the background. A great future is in store for Fay in the cinema world.
This film is lavishly made and the color sequence, marking the celebration of Corpus Christi, is beautiful. No doubt "The Wedding March" in its entirety is a great picture, but such is not the case as it is put on the screen. The story deals with an Austrian kingdom, with the scenes laid in Vienna, and it falls Nicki's (Von Stroheim) lot to marry for money other than marry the girl he loves. George Fawcett, Zasu Pitts, Dale Fuller, and Matthew Betz head the supporting cast.

ERICH VON STROHEIM IN THE PARAMOUNT PICTURE "THE WEDDING MARCH"
What is believed by Paramount studio executives and hundreds of reviewers to be one of the most pretentious screen products of the season, was offered to Grand theatre patrons, Monday and Tuesday when Erich Von Stroheim's production "The Wedding March" plays at that theatre.
The filming of the picture consumed a great period of time and the result has been a picture of Vienna life in story and color. The sequences laid in and before the great St. Stephan's cathedral in Vienna during the celebration of Corpus Christi required the assistance of more than 2,000 persons and resulted in scenes of the utmost magnificence. These sequences are reproduced on the screen in colors of rare beauty.
The hundreds of uniforms worn by the mounted soldiers were actually secured in Vienna and are the original costumes worn by members of the famous Mounted Guards regiment. In the Corpus Christi sequence, the carriage occupied by the late Emperor Franz Josef, imported from Austria in spite of united opposition on the part of loyal Austrians, is used.

TART INVESTIGATION OF CHURCH BLAZE

PORT WORTH, Jan. 14. (P)—Preliminary investigation of cause of the blaze, which Saturday wrecked the First Baptist church and the Sunday school annex, at an estimated loss of $400,000, was begun this morning by James Byrne, state arson investigator, and A. W. Penninger, Waco, investigator for the national board of fire underwriters.
With the advent of these two men here, both of whom announced they expected to remain for several days, the fire was being investigated by four agencies. The other two are the district attorney's office and the city fire marshal's department.
"Our investigation now is the usual preliminary investigation made after a fire of this size," Investigator Byrne said. "We have just started work this morning and so, of course, have nothing to announce at this time. We expect to be in the city several days—perhaps we may be here considerably longer than that."
District Attorney Stuart announced that his office was still continuing its investigation and that analyses of samples taken from tubs and jugs found in the church and annex building Saturday had not yet been completed.
The prosecutor was closed for a half hour this morning with investigators Byrne and Penninger. With them was City Fire Marshal Ligon and City Detective Jack Sullivan. Statements taken by the district attorney's office Saturday were gone over by the quartet.

Flue Creating Phenomenal
Demand for Vicks VapoRub

Although the flu itself is not so serious as in 1918, authorities stress the importance of taking every possible precaution for fear of the complications which invade the weakened system AFTER a flu-attack.
They urge, especially, prompt treatment of every cold, as colds lower the body resistance and make easier for flu or pneumonia to get a foothold.
That the public is heeding this warning is indicated by the phenomenal demand for Vicks Vapo-Rub, the famous external treatment which leaped to fame almost overnight during the 1918 epidemic. In spite of tripled capacity, the Vicks laboratories are once more operating night and day, and $75,000 jars are now being produced every 24 hours.—Adv.

COW TESTING
BRINGS PROFITS

Bexar County Herds Produce
Best With Scientific Handling

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 8.—There were 19 dairy herds on test last year in the Bexar County Herd Improvement association. The highest producing herd was of grade Jerseys as was also the lowest. The first had 15 cows and the other had 14. But the high producing herd made $54.91 more net profit per cow above feed cost than the low one, according to a recent report of the cow tester, T. H. Royder. The owner of the high producing herd, Vol Peterson of Atascosa, made about $900 more last year than the farmer with the lowest herd in the association. Mr. Royder says this latter herd about represents the average dairy herd in the state with an average production of 127.7 pounds of butterfat per cow. The difference in production and profits is said to be in the productive ability of the cows and in the differences in care and management.
Mr. Peterson's herd averaged 397 pounds of butterfat worth $212.10. The cost of feed, including pasture, per cow was $57.82 and the profit per cow above feed cost $154.28. Every cow in the herd was fed according to production as determined by the daily weighings. The ration was composed of cane hay, burned pear (cactus), ground corn and meal, wheat bran, cottonseed meal, bone meal and salt. The cows had access to oat and Sudan pasture and were fed grain while pastured.
As a result of this cow testing in Bexar county two scrub bulls were discarded to be replaced by four pure-breds and 44 boarder cows were discovered and sold to the butcher. Fifteen other low producing yet not worthless cows were culled out and sold, and 25 cows brought into those 19 herds. Two new dairy barns and two stove sheds were built. Rations were altered and feeds placed on an individual production basis. Dairying as conducted by these members has been changed from haphazard guessing to profitable, scientific management.

SPUD IN JOHNSON
WELL ON SUNDAY

Bert Laubenheim of Fort Worth
Starts Another Test For Oil in County

A crowd estimated at 2,000 persons witnessed the spudding in of the new test well, Johnson No. 1, Sunday afternoon on the Johnson brothers' farm, two and a half miles west of town.
A derrick, 96 feet high, constructed of new timbers, for the rotary rig and a fine string of tools have been installed. Operations are in charge of D. S. Hoar, for Bert L. Laubenheim of Fort Worth, drilling contractor. It is planned to take the test down 2,000 feet, and should indications at that depth show encouraging indications, the well may go to 4,000 feet, for which the equipment provides.
It is estimated 200 feet had been drilled before the well was shut down Sunday night, and work was resumed early Monday morning.
The work is being financed with the $5,000 remaining from the $10,000 raised a few years ago by C. I. Broad for oil tests.

HEALTH SEAL SALE NEARS ITS QUOTA

Urge Return of Checks or Donations To Give Paris Larger Percentage

A recent check shows that the recent sale of Christmas health seals, for the fight against tuberculosis is near the $1,000 quota assigned the county, and only $75 or $100 is lacking. It is pointed out that if the full quota is reached, 75 per cent, instead of the usual 60 per cent of the amount can be kept here for local work.

About 200 letters sent out before Christmas have not been returned, and all those who have not done so are asked to send in the enclosed checks immediately, or if they did not use the stamps return them, as the Lamar county association is responsible for the stamps or their equivalent.

Those who feel able to do so, even if they have already given toward this cause, are urged to make further donation toward the quota here, in order to reach the $1,000 mark, and thus increase the percentage of the amount to be kept here.

The work locally includes assistance for patients at the tuberculosis unit of Lamar hospital, and to other tubercular sufferers, distribution of informative literature, and other preventive measures.

Chapter 55.

But once inside her door, Byrd felt a little regret that she hadn't accepted Martin's offer.

She hung her hat and coat on a rack behind the door, and took off her dress and slipped into a kimono. She stretched out on the bed, piling the pillows behind her head and took up her book.

She read the first page and then laid it back on the table listlessly. "Nowhere to go, but out; nowhere to stay but in," she said gloomily. "What a chump I was not to say I'd go and dance."

Suddenly she jumped out of bed. These evenings were getting on her nerves. She spent quite a little time over her toilet, having smeared her face and neck with cold cream and powdered and rouged it lightly. She brushed her long, beautiful hair that looked like a golden stream of water under the light. She braided it and wound it coronet-fashion around her shapely head. She slipped into the blue-flowered or-gandy.

She waited a few minutes at the top of the stairs and as she saw Martin pass through the hall, she called to him softly.

"Oh, Mr. Kelly," her voice came gently down the stairs, "what would you say if I told you I had changed my mind?"

"I'd say 'Bully!'" and Martin was up the stairs, taking two steps at a time.

In a few minutes they were driving out toward Willowby. The November wind, high and strong, as it blew across her face from the open window, had a tang of rain and winter and summer in it, blended insidiously.

Martin did his best to be entertaining. But Byrd couldn't throw herself into a new mood. She wanted to do things, but the minute she was doing them they lost their zest. Her mind kept going over incidents of her married life, incidents that this drive recalled, parties and road houses.

They took a small white table at the far end of the oval dancing floor and as Byrd looked around, she thought it was a lovely place in which to dance. The little pink lamps threw a rosy mist over the polished floor, making it look like a rosy lake, and in it were reflected the trelises that covered the ceiling and walls and the profusion of flowers that twined around them.

The warm, bright room was only partly filled, for this was late in the season.

The jazz band, on its little platform, began to wail its syncopated rhythms.

"We'll have to order a bite," said Martin, as the waiter came toward them with his card. He ordered cheese and wafers and gingerale, ice and glasses.

They danced.

The little orchestra wailed and a colored boy broke out into song as he beat an occasional kettle-drum.

"Has she got naughty eyes?"

Yes, she has naughty eyes, boom, boom, boom."

It was the first time in her life that Byrd felt the ecstasy of dancing. She knew she was a beautiful and expert dancer, and that increased her enjoyment. Hadn't Mr. Semenoff continued to rave about her dancing? She gave herself up to the beat of the music and floated with it out into space.

As they went back to their table, Martin said inelegantly:

"Well, I'll be tried! The lady can dance!"

"You throw a wicked hoof yourself," Byrd answered archly, for Martin was a grand dancer.

The music started again, accompanied by a lilting tenor.

"Who, who, who stole my heart away?"

They both laughed at the words, but Martin held her a little closer for an instant, while they swayed to the exquisite music.

"They nibbled at the cheese and crackers during the intermission and then Martin, looking carefully around the room, quickly poured a little of the contents of the flask he drew out of his pocket into their glasses. It was a tiny flask and contained very little.

"This is the elixir of life!" he said. "Let's toast each other."

"Here's to us!" said Byrd, and she drank part of the glassful.

Then she hastily set it down. She had drunk it without thinking. She had decided weeks ago not to touch a drop of anything to drink, and here she was, drinking out of Martin's flask.

"Oh, it's safe!" laughed Martin. "It can't afford much of the stuff, but what I have is O. K."

They danced several times before their glasses were emptied.

"We'll keep the profits for the end of the evening," he said, looking at the half-emptied bottle.

"I suppose if people only drank moderately," said Byrd, seriously, "there wouldn't be any drink problem."

And later, when Byrd refused a second glass, Martin stowed the bottle back in his pocket.

"One thing I can't do is to drink alone," he said. "We'll save this for the next time."

They danced many times and Byrd thought she had never relished anything so much in her life.

On the way home, Martin looked at her questioningly again and again. The old mood possessed her. Life had passed her by. She might find forgetfulness for a little while, but in the end the hungry longing for the little white house and one pair of arms carried her into a black abyss.

Byrd decided not to go to Tiny's fancy dress party.

She shrank from being seen in public places or in crowds where people would discuss her separation from Larry. She would be unhappy all evening because she would be reminded more strongly than ever that she was now a "sin-

"I'm all upset," Tiny announced.

Chet and Pat would look after her, of course, from a sense of duty, but she would be alone just the same. There would be no one in whom she was especially interested! No one to watch and worry over!

That was positively settled, she thought, one night, as she crawled into her bed. Then she cried a little and felt terribly sorry for herself.

Tiny's visit to the bank the next day changed her resolutions.

It was just a few days before the party, and Tiny came in all excited about something.

When anything worried Tiny, her hat always responded sympathetically by sitting at the wrong angle. Her hair straggled a little around her red face. Excitement always gave her a debauched look.

"I'm all upset," she announced, sitting down heavily. "Fred's gone and made his usual last minute suggestion and has upset everything."

"What's he done this time?" asked Byrd, amused, but hoping Tiny would make her business short and snappy, for she had work to do.

"Fred's always got big ideas," said Tiny, proudly. "If he would only think of them in time. He wants me to get a couple of Russian or Spanish or Bulgarian dancers to dance in costume."

"It would add to the party," said Byrd, musingly.

"I've been all over town and the vaudeville agencies tell me they have to have two weeks' notice. So there you are," she added helplessly. "What am I going to do about it?"

A novel and very impractical idea had suddenly popped into Byrd's head. She shoved it away where she wouldn't think of it again. It was perfectly preposterous!

"I wouldn't disappoint Fred for anything," said Tiny. "He does have such grand ideas!"

"Leave it to Jane," said Byrd, suddenly. "I think I know someone who will dance for you."

"Honest?" asked Tiny, brightening.

"Yes, I'm pretty sure I can get a couple," said Byrd, with a little more assurance in her voice. "I'll see them tonight and let you know."

Tiny looked as if the burdens of the world had been lifted from her shoulders.

"You know," she said as she was going out of the door, "I'll miss India. Of course I wouldn't invite her for anything in the world, but she did add pep to a party."

That was what people wanted these days, thought Byrd. They wanted pep, vivacity, speed! Well, she'd show them something. Indeed she would!

That night after the dancing class, Byrd lingered at the dressing table.

"You don't mind if I run along, do you darling?" asked Pat. "You know Chet worries when I'm late."

"I won't be ready for some time," said Byrd, "you chase along Fatsy."

After all the others had gone, Byrd broached the plan to the Remenoffs. She had a friend who was giving a fancy dress party and she wanted two Russian dancers to entertain the guests during the evening.

"Do you think we might accept the engagement?" asked Byrd, shyly. "I'd love to do it if you think I dance well enough."

"Splendid!" exclaimed Mr. Remenoff. "Splendid! Let would give you the good experience. Let would bring you, perhaps, other engagements."

Mrs. Remenoff was enthusiastic, too.

"Since you're masked, no one need to know," she said, "and I believe I've got exactly the right costume for you. I wore it years ago in the Scheherazade and again in the ballet Russe."

The idea seemed now to intoxicate Byrd and an ecstatic thrill of anticipation poured through her veins. She'd show them that India wasn't the only person who could do things! Why, she'd put it all over India! Indeed she would!

She wished now that India was going to be there, just to see how she could entertain and amuse a whole roomful of people.

And she had a strange longing that Larry might be there, too. Especially Larry! Wouldn't that be a satisfaction!

Then he mood suddenly changed and she shivered at the thought of the boldness of the plan. Dancing with a man as experienced as Mr. Remenoff! Suppose she should get stage fright and not be able to do one step? Her head swam a little at the idea.

Mrs. Remenoff brought the costume from the storeroom.

She must try it on then and there.

It was a gorgeous, iridescent affair, embroidered and appliqued with jewels, with long, puffy trousers laced down the sides in a lattice work of gold, a bodice that went to the waist in a point in the back and skirt wired so as to hold its many points out, of colored metallic cloth, the whole effect being, as she danced, of an animated rainbow. It reached its crowning effect in the turban which had a little pair of gold-encrusted wings jutting out at the sides.

The costume fitted perfectly, but the turban was too small.

"The turban set does not feet so well," said Mr. Remenoff, "because of the hair."

Mrs. Remenoff considered.

"We'll try to stretch it," she offered, somewhat dubiously.

Byrd's thoughts were almost visible and flitted over her face like shadows made by passing clouds on sunlight water.

"I've really wanted to cut it for a long time," she admitted, "but every one discouraged me."

"If it has a natural wave, it would be lovely short. Long hair let's live gal two is more difficult for dancing," said Mrs. Remenoff.

"I'll cut it!" announced Byrd, with the courageous look that must have been in Hannibal's eyes as he crossed the Alps.

She made arrangements with Mr. Remenoff to practice with him several times before the party.

The very next morning Byrd stopped at a beauty parlor in the Athletic building and, with a sense of terror and misgiving, sat down in the big barber's chair.

In a few minutes her golden hair lay like summer mist all around the floor.

She had the feeling that she had lost part of her body, or at least, part of her soul.

With a pleased look, the barber held the mirror before her eyes.

How strange she looked! But how youthful! Why, she didn't look a day older than Pat! She studied the reflection long and intently.

With plenty of water, the beauty expert laid in wide, concentric circles and then she sat for half an hour under the drier.

The result was amazingly beautiful. Byrd felt a little light-headed as she walked out of the parlor under the admiring gaze of all the operators who had been called in to see the finished product.

Byrd's confidence in herself mounted. Now she could dance! This had given her all the courage in the world.

"Be your chest measure," she said to herself, as she went down the elevator.

"Light a Lucky and you'll never miss sweets that make you fat"

INSTEAD of eating between meals . . instead of fattening sweets . . beautiful women keep youthful slenderness these days by smoking Luckies. The smartest and loveliest women of the modern stage take this means of keeping slender . . when others nibble fattening sweets, they light a Lucky!

Lucky Strike is a delightful blend of the world's finest tobaccos. These tobaccos are toasted—a costly extra process which develops and improves the flavor. That's why Luckies are a delightful alternative for fattening sweets. That's why there's real health in Lucky Strike. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

For years this has been no secret to those men who keep fit and trim. They know that Luckies steady their nerves and do not harm their physical condition. They know that Lucky Strike is the favorite cigarette of many prominent athletes, who must keep in good shape. They respect the opinions of 20,679 physicians who maintain that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

A GOOD INVESTMENT

THE substantial cash gift made last week to the Paris Rotary Club student loan fund by Mr. J. J. Culbertson is of a character that will make its benefits felt down through time. In the multiplied results of its influence in educational service and human influence, its value will accrue increasingly as time goes on. Perhaps this "investment in young manhood and young womanhood," as Mr. Culbertson appropriately referred to it, is in some particular instance to aid in the purchase for society of a single enlightened personality whose service to humanity will make him great.

There is perhaps no surer way of making one's influence felt through eternity than in a contribution to education. The fruits of good influence and human uplift are imperishable.

STUDY SHOWS MINISTRY DRAWS MINISTER'S SONS

THE often repeated belief that ministers' sons are wild is discredited strongly in the results of a questionnaire undertaken by the American Eugenics Society, Inc., by Dr. Henry S. Huntington of Scarsdale, N. Y.

Himself a minister, Dr. Huntington set out to learn where ministers come from, half expecting that farmer boys would prove the largest source of supply.

He analyzed the ancestry of 104 of America's leading clergymen and found that two-fifths of them are ministers' sons.

Nearly 30 per cent more proved to be sons of church officers, such as deacons, elders and Sunday school superintendents. Twenty-one came from homes in which neither father nor mother was a minister or a lay officer of a church.

Dr. Huntington drew no conclusions as to whether environment or heredity was the principal cause of entry into the ministry, but he received numerous opinions from the 104 ministers themselves that their inclinations away from worldly pursuits were direct results from their home lives and the beliefs of parents.

MERRILL FAMILY SHOWS HOW BLOOD WILL TELL

THE double value of ancestry of high intelligence, first to the success of descendants and second in service to the community, is analyzed in the Jess Merrill family by Arthur H. Eastbrook, eugenics research expert for the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

The analysis was made for the American Eugenics Society, Inc.

Jesse Merrill and his bride in 1789 made their wedding journey in an ox-drawn sled from Newbury, Mass. to Peacham, Vt. Their recorded descendants number 480.

Of these, Eastbrook says, one in each 40 has been listed in some form of dictionary of notable persons, compared with an average for the United States of one in each 4500. The Merrills included distinguished lawyers, soldiers, writers, ministers, teachers, engineers and social workers.

"As far as can be ascertained after an exhaustive investigation," says Eastbrook, "not one of this family ever has been arrested or convicted of a crime. No one ever has been in the poorhouse. Only one ever has been a day laborer for any length of time."

PATRIOTISM PLUS

NOBODY can disparage patriotism. Love of one's country is the beginning of good citizenship. But there is something else that ought always to go with patriotism. It is the international mind. Love of one's own country without appreciation of the other fellow's country, his excellencies, his problems, and his viewpoint, is a narrow, half-developed, unintelligent patriotism. That sort of patriotism isn't enough to have any great part in building a better house for mankind.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

LEVYING A TAX ON DIPLOMAS

From the Dallas Times-Herald:

MUSSOLINI is calling upon Italians who learned their professions in the state schools to help their alma maters by sending in small annual contributions. He is backing his suggestion with the information that those who do not respond will be fined.

In the United States the graduates of many nonstate colleges are frequently called upon to contribute to alumni funds. As a rule they respond. The strongest schools are those which have been helped by graduates who have accumulated wealth.

Our state universities and colleges also receive some aid from alumni associations, but the graduates, as a rule, feel that the state schools should be kept up by taxation. And those who are successful in their professions usually accumulate property enough to make their tax bill pretty heavy.

Yet lawyers, doctors, engineers and others who receive their higher education at the expense of the state really do owe their success in a large measure to the liberality of the taxpayers. Not all of them are sufficiently grateful to respond for calls for aid.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By Charles P. Stewart

ALL NEWS CENSORED DURING HOOVER TOUR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Explain it as Mr. Hoover's friends may, there is no getting away from the fact that a censorship prevailed throughout the whole of the president-elect's Latin-American tour.

It seems to have resulted in the suppression of little if any important news.

There evidently was none—further than that the trip was important in itself. However, it appears certain that "spot" events—to use the reporter's lingo—were lacking en route.

(Of course the plot of Argentine reds against Mr. Hoover's life was important, but that was no part of the trip itself.)

That the tour was without sensations of much consequence is pretty well proved by the failure of the Washington newspaper men to discover any in the course of the investigation which they instituted on the party's return, immediately following the disclosure that correspondents who accompanied it might have been denied the right to transmit the tidings, had any occurred.

The very circumstance that censorial methods had been employed made the inquiry twice as thorough as it would otherwise have been—on the theory that especial vigilance is necessary whenever and wherever the press' freedom is curtailed. (The essential weakness of a censorship being that it simply breeds suspicion.)

Of reasons for the restrictions placed upon the correspondents a number were given—The captain of a man-o-war is entitled, under the regulations, to exercise a censorship over anything sent from his ship by wireless. The censorship was merely a matter of advice and cooperation.

The newspaper men were bound as unofficial members of the good-will mission, by a measure of responsibility for its success.

And in the last analysis, as it was pointed out, the tour's chroniclers had full liberty to file what they chose at the commercial cable stations wherever they were able to land.

Some, at least, of the journalistic delegation bring back complaints nevertheless—

Many changes were made in their dispatches which could not possibly have been of the slightest interest to the captain of a man-o-war.

They were not free to accept or ignore advice, as they pleased.

They would have preferred to interpret their obligations as good-will tourists to suit themselves.

As for their privilege of cabling whatever they liked while ashore—yes, to be sure—but what about their status back on board?—when it leaked out that they had beaten the embargo by that means?

The consensus in Washington correspondential circles seems that the censorship really signified very little insofar as the tour was concerned, but that it looks decidedly like presenting Mr. Hoover's conception of the freedom of the press as something altogether different from the newspaper men's.

The president indisputably can make it extremely disagreeable for a correspondent of whose literary style he disapproves.

On the other hand, the correspondents collectively have a great deal to do with making a White House administration popular or otherwise.

NATIONAL FOREST SITUATION OUTLINED

By Dr. William M. Jardine
Secretary of Agriculture

OUR reserves of virgin forest, from which we have always been able to draw abundant supplies of timber, have been a marvelous gift of nature, but they have unfortunately masked from the public the true seriousness of the forest situation.

Under private ownership our forest lands have been subjected to destructive logging and fire and as a whole have steadily deteriorated in their capacity to grow new crops of wood through the destruction of residual tree growth and of adequate sources of seed for natural reforestation. Perhaps most tragic of all, the basic resource—the soil itself—has been irreparably injured.

This widespread forest destruction is the natural result of the fundamental economic error committed when our nation permitted most of its public forests to pass into private ownership. Originally transferred for a nominal consideration, such forests have passed into the hands of their present owners under conditions which often represent large capital investments and entail heavy carrying charges.

The department of agriculture is interested in the forest problem not merely as a matter of timber supply, but also as a matter of productive use of land. When we consider that one-fourth of our total land area is better suited physically and economically for forest production than for any other purpose, I need say nothing more to set forth the important part that the full utilization of these lands ought to play in our national economy.

Not only should the government continue its work as a forest land owner, but it should also greatly increase the federal efforts to work out the co-operative forestry movement to its full possibilities.

We are, I am convinced, facing an era of more far-reaching co-operation between government and industry for the betterment of many economic conditions. I believe that this method is applicable to the forest situation on a much larger scale than it has hitherto been applied and to this end the forest service is working. If however, this co-operative method proves inadequate national security will, in my opinion, require that it be supplemented or supplanted by more drastic measures.

California seems to have gotten jealous of Florida's hurricane publicity—it has countered with a sweeping flu epidemic.—Ocala (Fla.) Banner.

Child Who Tends to Use Left Hand Easily Uses Both

"Your recent article stating that possible injurious effects might result from insisting that a naturally left-handed child use the right hand, interested me greatly. My oldest girl, now seven years of age, showed a decided preference for using the left hand when she first began to feed herself. I always put the spoon in her right hand and she soon learned to use the right hand. She has always been extremely restless, fidgety and excitable. She laughs and cries easily. A school nurse once told me that she thought her excitability was part of her disposition. She has always been sturdy, active and exceptionally strong. I am wondering if this excitability is caused by my having forced her to use the right hand? Would it be of any benefit to her to encourage her now to use the left hand?"

MRS. D.

I don't believe, from your description, Mrs. D., that your little girl was very strongly left-handed.

It is probably only when there is a very strong tendency to use the left hand and there has been considerable difficulty in teaching the child to use the right, that there may be some upset to the nervous system. Even then, this does not always occur.

Evidently your little girl could easily be ambidextrous—use both hands with equal facility—and that is desirable. I wouldn't worry about trying to change her to left-handedness now.

How about your own disposition?

"I have a three-months old baby and haven't sufficient milk to nurse her. Please advise me what to eat or drink so I can increase my milk. I have gained 10 pounds since my baby arrived."

The fact that you have gained 10 pounds shows you are taking too much of the starches, sugars and fats. Mrs. C. Eating so that you gain impoverishes the milk. You will probably find that it will increase when you cut down on these energy foods.

You should have approximately a quart of milk a day. Nuts and nut butters have proven to be beneficial and perhaps you can increase your eggs and meats if you are not taking too much of them now. Be sure to get sufficient fruits and vegetables for your vitamins and mineral elements. It might be wise for you to take some cod liver oil and some yeast or yeast cakes.

FLOOD CONTROL WORK PROGRESSES

Twenty-Four Millions Spent for Repair Work on Mississippi Past Year

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 12.—Work of protecting the lower Mississippi valley from a recurrence of the disastrous flood waters of 1927 is well under way, with $24,000,000 spent for repair work during the last year, and the appropriation of $50,000,000 expected from the present congress for continuing the task.

This was announced recently by Brig. Gen. Thomas H. Jackson, president of the Mississippi River Commission, in charge of the $25,000,000 flood control program authorized in 1927 by congress to be spread over a period of ten years. Jackson estimated that within the next three years the government will spend a total of approximately $10,000,000 in purchasing land rights along the river for the construction of four floodways to divert overflow waters.

In reviewing the work of building up broken-down levees and repairing caved-in banks along the Mississippi river, Jackson told of the United States flood control board, of which he is a member, reconciling engineering details of plans approved by congress and handling the work smoothly.

Of the money spent during the past year, approximately $9,000,000 was allotted to place 25,000 yards of material in levees and approximately $11,000,000 was devoted to bank protection or re-ventment work. About 20 miles of new reventment work is being laid and four or five miles repaired. Approximately $1,000,000 was spent for dredging and improving channels below Cairo, Ill.

FORT WORTH BUSINESS MAN ENDORSES IT

Head of One of Largest Concerns in Texas Gives Sargon
Unqualified Endorsement

Nearly everybody in Fort Worth is either personally acquainted with or has heard of L. A. Barnes, executive head of L. A. Barnes Company, manufacturing stationers of Fort Worth, one of the largest and oldest businesses of its kind in the Southwest.

Mr. Barnes is a pioneer citizen of Texas, and is prominently identified with the business and social life of Fort Worth. He is a man of unquestioned integrity, whose word is as good as his bond.

In discussing the benefits he has derived from Sargon, Mr. Barnes said:

"I suffered with indigestion more or less for twenty years. I was almost constantly troubled with biliousness and the distressing symptoms that usually accompany this condition. My liver was inactive and I was habitually constipated. Nearly everything I ate disagreed with me. I became weak, was easily fatigued, lacked energy and was in a general run-down condition. I was very susceptible to colds, which I am sure was due to my weakened condition.

"After taking two bottles of Sargon I have a splendid appetite. I eat heartily and enjoy my meals. My digestion is sound, I am no longer bilious, and I believe my liver is performing perfectly. I am more active and energetic and I don't tire out like I did. I am no longer troubled with constipation. I feel 100 per cent better in every way.

"I want my recommendation to also include Sargon Soft Mass Pills, for I have been taking them along with Sargon, and I consider them an essential part of the treatment. They are mild, thorough and dependable.

"I have already praised Sargon to a number of my friends. You may be sure I would not give it my endorsement if I did not consider it an extraordinary medicine."

Sargon may be obtained in Paris from Williams-Burgess, in Roxton from Walter Bywaters Drug Co., and in Deport from Crescent Drug Store.—Adv.

is in the very heart of America's Greatest Natural Gas Belt -and NATURAL GAS Attracts Industries — Builds Cities!

DID YOU know that you live right in the heart of the greatest natural gas belt in the country?

Think what this means to you.

Of course it means that you enjoy at low rates the blessing of natural gas—the ideal cooking and heating fuel—for home use.

But it means more than that.

It means growing communities, with constantly increasing property values, because this great natural resource of abundant natural gas attracts industries.

Heat is the heart of industry. Industry inevitably follows fuel resources. Industry is already being attracted to the great Southwest because of its vast natural gas production.

You have other resources—but the most distinctive—the most important—is natural gas. You're "sitting on top of the world" as far as natural gas is concerned!

And Lone Star Gas Company, as one of the oldest, largest and strongest of the gas pipe line companies operating in the great Southwest natural gas belt, is always on the alert to make the rich resource of natural gas maximally beneficial to your community—and to you.

This map, based on a map published by H. J. Struth in Natural Gas Magazine, shows in black the principal natural gas producing areas of the country. The Southwest produces three times the amount of natural gas produced by the great California natural gas belt, and practically twice as much as the widely scattered eastern natural gas fields taken as a unit. Thus, the Southwest overshadows all others in natural gas production. It is America's greatest natural gas belt—and natural gas attracts industries—builds cities.

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mr. James F. Campbell, of 1012 W. Fifth St., Little Rock, Ark., says: "I had bloating after eating. My rheumatism was so bad I could hardly raise my arms. Now I can eat anything and do a good day's work."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

Avoid colds or "flu" by doing two easy things

Keep your system in good condition—
protect your nose
and throat

THERE is no use worrying all winter for fear you will catch cold or get "flu". Do the following two things and forget it: First, keep your system in good condition, and, second, keep your nose and throat well protected. The chances are you will avoid contagion.

As a first precaution, many doctors are prescribing Nujol. It is not a laxative or cathartic but a pure, natural substance that helps your system function at all times the way nature intended it to. Like pure water, it is harmless. Physicians agree that, particularly in times of epidemic, purging by laxatives and cathartics is not advisable.

Many doctors are now prescribing Nujol, as in no case does it cause exhaustion or weakening of the system in any way. Take it every night; it will keep you in first class condition. You will have a far better chance to resist colds or "flu" or any diseases that are going the rounds.

As a second safety measure, use Mistol, as it protects the nose and throat against the germs of influenza. Use it every morning, the first thing, before you go out. Again, when you come home at night. Don't be afraid to use it freely; it will do no harm.

Never has colds

Just tilt your head back and apply Mistol with the special dropper which comes with every package, until you feel it trickling down your throat. It will clear your head wonderfully, relieve any inflammation; it will help dry up a running nose. It has a soothing effect on the throat too. Gargle it for a sore throat or a little irritating cough.

The combination treatment of Nujol and Mistol is a double safeguard against colds and influenza. Start this wise twofold precaution now. Put worry out of your mind. Nujol and Mistol are on sale at all druggists.

Dragons Win Conference Game in Last Moments of Play

TEXARKANA TO BE FOR SECOND TILT TONIGHT

Rapid Scoring By Withers and McDowell Retrieve Victory

By Paul Ives

Coming from behind in the last minute of play, the Paris Junior College Dragons won their first conference game of the season by defeating the Texarkana Junior College Bulldogs Monday night 22 to 18, in one of the fastest basketball games ever seen on the Fair Park coliseum court. Thrill after thrill was afforded the spectators and both quintets went through the fray at a furious pace. "Lanky" Withers, Dragon forward, tied the count with a free throw in the last few moments of the game, followed by a field goal and a few seconds later Captain McDowell duplicated, putting the game on ice.

The Texarkana five took the lead at the beginning of the game and led the Paris hoopers by one goal as the half ended. As the second half got under way, both teams jugged the lead between them, neither quite being able to keep the advantage. The Bulldogs were leading by five markers with five minutes to play but the local lads were not to be outdone and retaliated with three points in very short order. Then came the foul shot and field goal by Withers, followed by McDowell's goal, clinching the evening's entertainment for the home boys. Sullivan, flashy Bulldog forward, was high point man in the evening with a total of 12 markers.

Both sides showed worlds of ability and handled themselves in professional fashion. The customers on hand last night, the largest crowd of the season, seemingly enjoyed the fracas to the utmost, as they displayed real sporting enthusiasm and cheering was heard throughout the game.

The Texarkana boys will make every effort to even up the count when the teams meet again tonight at 7:30 on the Paris high school floor. The Bulldogs are not to be taken lightly and the game tonight promises to be a bitter struggle.

Lineup: Paris—Withers and McDowell, forwards; Briggs and James, guards; Basano, center. Texarkana—Mullins and Sullivan, forwards; Wilson and Romine, guards; Wallace, center. Substitutes: Paris, Bankhead; Texarkana, Acocik.

DEFER NAMING PERMANENT HEADQUARTERS FOR TSTA

FORT WORTH, Jan. 12. (AP)—Selection of permanent headquarters for the Texas State Teachers association was deferred until April and made the first order of business for the meeting of the executive committee at time by vote of members of that committee in session Saturday morning at the association offices here.

The committee also went on record of disapproving any offers of lots, buildings, money or other incentives from cities in the state which are bidding for the headquarters.

President R. M. Caldwell, Dallas, expressed the opinion of the committee in the statement that "the matter of selecting a permanent headquarters has not been thought through or received sufficient consideration as yet for us to take any definite action on the matter."

Dallas was awarded the fall convention of the state association, the committee members voting their appreciation of the offer made made by Galveston, Amarillo, Houston and Fort Worth.

EIGHT CLUBS READY TO START THIS SEASON

Sherman and Ardmore Added To Loop; Adopt Seven Rookie Rule

By Harry Cox

In one of the most harmonious meetings ever held by any class D organization, representatives of the various clubs in the Lone Star league gathered Sunday at Tyler for their annual pow wow. The meeting was presided over by President Tom Fisher and Secretary Homer Henry.

Every club in the circuit was represented by one or more officials, and this being a fact makes it almost a miracle that everybody got what they wanted without a lot of superfluous oratory or wind jamming. Representatives from the six clubs already in the league, Paris, Texarkana, Tyler, Palestine, Mexia and Corsicana, announced themselves ready to go. The league finished the season in a healthy condition (for class D) and the clubs say they are ready to go again. One most important ruling was made during the meeting which applies to rookies. Each club must carry at least seven rookies on their roster, and will be allowed only one class A player. With a seven rookie rule, rigidly enforced there is a chance for class D ball, but otherwise not. It has been attempted time and time again, and always leads to one end—financial trouble. But the moguls solemnly agreed to carry seven rookies this summer. Let's hope they do.

Two New Cities

Two new cities were enrolled for the coming year—Ardmore and Sherman. Polly McHenry, old time big leaguer, will handle the Arnold, Max Gibbs and Cecil Griggs will endeavor to put baseball back on the map in Sherman. Everybody remembers Arnold, the gent with the fognhorn voice, who got a lot of kick out of baseball, whether Sherman was winning or losing.

Owner C. M. Hannon, who represented Paris at the Tyler meeting, has not yet secured a manager for 1929, but is negotiating with several. He had the refusal Sunday of some fifteen or eighteen men who wanted to manage the club, each assuring Charlie privately that he could produce a winner for Paris if given the opportunity.

Turkey Gross, who piloted the 1928 entry the latter part of the summer may be selected, and there is also a probability of Dickie Kerr being at the helm. Bennie Brownlow is another gent who wants to come back to Paris. Brownlow is the hustling type of ball player and expects hustle from the athletes under him. They either play for Bennie or they don't draw down their money on the first and fifteenth.

"You suckers can hustle and draw your pay, or you can loaf and do without it," is what Brownlow tells 'em—and they hustle. Kai Segrist, the Hico cowboy, was another applicant for a managerial job with Paris. Segrist played third base for Dallas four years, and last season managed Omaha in the Western league for a spell.

The woods were full of managers, would-be managers and ball players Sunday and the Blackstone hotel looked like an old home week. Among the number of faces noted were Les Tullios, Ray Falk, Roy Akin, George Jackson, Charlie Miller, Conley Ludwig, Dee Poindexter, and a host of others, also a big number who wanted to umpire.

Old time Paris fans will recall both Akin and Poindexter. Roy looks the picture of health. Poindexter, way along in years, recently had his teeth removed and stated Sunday he had learned to cuss without much trouble, but had not yet learned to eat anything but soup. "And soup," you know, said Dee, "is not fattening, but whatta ya' gonna do about it? We know many who will sympathize."

Another meeting will be held within the next three weeks, at which time a schedule will be adopted, the guarantee money put up, and the regular season's whoopee will get under way. Here in Paris a park will have to be secured, or new stands built at the old one. Owner Charles M. Hannon is willing to go the route if Paris fans will give him a little help. It would be asking too much for Mr. Hannon to back the club without assistance, as it is a losing proposition the best way it can be figured. Hannon stood the gaff last summer, and is ready to do his share and more the coming season—but he must have a little assistance.

With a suitable ball park Paris could have a big league club here this spring. The Detroit Tigers would have trained in this city had there been a good park. That would mean some forty to fifty athletes here for a period of six or more weeks, at an average cost of at least $7.50 per day per man, together with a half dozen or more newspaper men. And it would have meant valuable publicity for Paris. Such a program would also have drawn people to Paris for hundreds of miles around just to see such famous stars as Heilmann, Rice, Stoner, Woodall, McManus and others doing their daily dozen. Maybe we will be ready next year.

The local club has a number of good ball players on the reserve list—Fugler, Pettit, Moss, Adair, and others, also a flock of youngsters coming up for trial. The season will open April 24 and close Sunday, August 23, with doubleheaders on legal holidays.

Each visiting club is guaranteed a flat $100 per day for week days and $125 for Sundays. The schedule gives 126 games which will be divided about equally at home and abroad.

Market Letter

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 14.—While the census bureau report on domestic mills, issued on the opening of the cotton market today was called disappointing, prices held steady and later on registered advances on prediction of great general business activity during the first quarter of 1929 and also on a less favorable view of last week's domestic textile figures, owing to the discovery that those figures were for four weeks in December against five weeks in November of this season and five weeks in December of last season.

According to the census bureau the figures were offset by the claim that last week's returns from the mills, through private sources, should have been twenty per cent higher as regards production, sales and shipments of cloths in order to make a fair comparison with the month and with the same month last year.

The weather over the weekend was abnormally cold but it was dry. The belt as a whole, says the weather is too cold for plowing. The soil, in most sections, is in good condition. While the weather has been cold it is claimed that it has not been cold enough to injure wintering weevils. Washington says the first weevil hibernation report of the season will be issued tomorrow at 1 o'clock New Orleans time. It will probably determine the course of prices.

EXPECT AMITY TO FOLLOW AGGIES NAMING BELL

Unless Students Protest, Frog Athletic Chairman Believes No Ill-Feeling to Result

FORT WORTH, Jan. 12.—Belief that no strained relations would result from the action taken by A. and M. college in securing the services of Coach Matty Bell, Texas Christian university mentor, were expressed by Prof. E. W. MacDiarmid, chairman of the Frog athletic committee, recently. While the controversy of the "dangerous precedent" has been raging in the newspapers of the section, faculty and student body of the Purple school have been congratulating the faculty and student body of the Farmers.

A plea that the amicable relations which have always characterized the relation of the two institutions be continued, was presented by Prof. MacDiarmid. The two schools have always been more friendly in their contacts, each receiving the other's student body in turn during the grid season and a spirit of "brotherliness" has characterized such meetings.

"The switch of coaches should do nothing to interrupt this fine spirit," is the opinion of MacDiarmid. "Unless the student bodies are 'asinine' nothing but a closer relation will result."

The Purple institution in the meanwhile, remains "coachless." With Ed Bubale returning as head mentor to his Alma Mater, Center, and with Matty already signed to succeed Bible in Farmerland, freshman coach Dutch Meyers and his assistant "Bear" Raymond Wolfe are the only staff members remaining next year.

Meetings of several committees composed of prominent alumni have been held to consider the subject, but so far these get-togethers have been merely preliminaries. "We will do nothing in a hurry," said L. C. "Pete" Wright, athletic director.

The number of applicants who have applied for the job is near a hundred, according to Wright, and they represent all sections of the nation from Maine to California.

Need for Greater School Facilities Urged in Posters

The need for greater educational facilities in Texas is the subject of the chambers of commerce posters for January, which appears on the poster panels of Paris.

"This current poster of the Together for Texas series," said E. F. Johnson, secretary of the chamber of commerce, "is one of the most vital interest to all of us because for the next thirty days it will focus our attention on the increasing needs for better educational opportunities. We are all so earnestly engaged in many activities which are bringing about a wonderful progress Texas is making that sometimes we lose sight of the fact that state progress demands more and more trained minds and that the more we advance industrially and agriculturally the greater needs we have for greater educational facilities to provide the leaders for tomorrow."

According to Mr. Johnson, these Together for Texas posters are a part of a four months campaign contributed to the local chamber of commerce by A. A. Edwards of the Paris Outdoor Advertising company, and are a part of a great statewide $80,000,000 campaign contributed by the members of the Outdoor Advertising Association of Texas to the chambers of commerce of Texas.

HIGH HAS INSTALLED FLAG POLE AND FLAG

HIGH, Jan. 14.—School is progressing fine since the holidays. Recently some new pupils, the Pearson children, have started to school.

Absent at this time on account of influenza are Ruth Crumley and Lee Shepard. A number who have been ill have returned to school.

The Rev. R. S. Kerr of Brookston recently visited us and made an interesting talk. Garon Crum of Paris Junior college was with us some time ago. We are glad to have visitors.

Our junior boys are anxious to take part in the basketball tournament at Paris.

The school is looking forward anxiously to its free show at the Plaza in the near future. They have decided to see Able's Irish Rose. Thanks to Mr. Overman for making the free show possible.

SPOTS BEFORE EYES

Miner Had Dark Spots Before Eyes. Felt Dull, Tired, Achy. Doesn't Get Down Any More.

Somers, Ky.—Telling how he had known of the merit of Theodor's Black-Draught since he was a boy, Mr. Albert Garland, of this city, recently said:

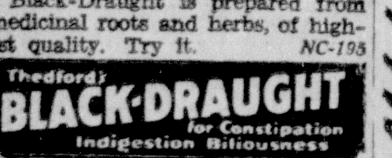

"I used to work in the mines, but lost quite a bit of time on account of the sick spells I had. I would get to having a bad taste in my mouth, and a very dull, tired feeling and ache. I would have dark spots in front of my eyes, and I would be so dizzy I would stagger like I was drunk."

"I took medicine, but didn't seem to get any better."

"My mother told me to try Black-Draught, which I did, and after a few doses I felt much better. Now I take it as soon as I feel the least bad, and I don't get down. I certainly can say that it has done more for me than any other medicine I have ever taken."

"I never get without Black-Draught. If I go on a visit, I take a package along in my suitcase. My health is better now than it has been in years, and I believe it is the use of Black-Draught that did it."

Black-Draught is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, of highest quality. Try it. NC-193

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO FLU

Coughs from Flu May Weaken Your System and Lead to Serious Trouble

You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membrane and inhibits germ growth.

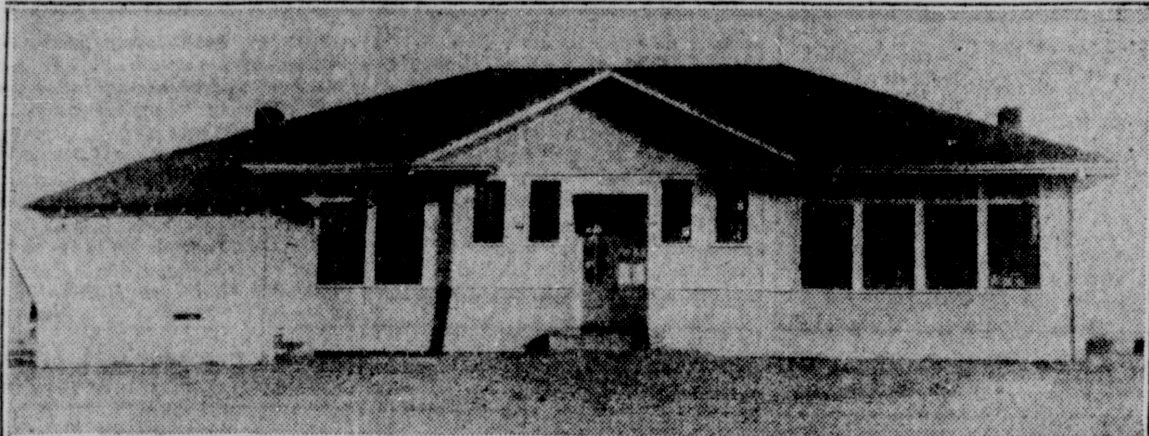

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membrane and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion may help you avoid flu, but is not sold as a flu remedy. If you have fever, or think you may have the flu, see your doctor immediately. (adv.)

TIGERTOWN SCHOOLHOUSE

PUPILS AT TIGERTOWN

Tigertown has at the present date a body of students which is among the leading boys and girls of any school in the county. They have the 4-H club work under A. L. Edmiston, the county agent and Miss Lida Cooper, the home demonstration agent, and are doing splendid work along these lines. They are also over average in their literary work in their school. In the picture, it is seen that their building is in a very bad condition for school purposes and in the score that it is very poorly equipped. But the community now has a petition to raise the taxes and build a modern two-teacher state-aid building and fit it with modern equipment to meet the needs and demands of the boys and girls.

Teachers at Tigertown are Misses Viola and Ruth Jones. This is the school's score: Grounds and outbuildings 110 points possible location 15, flag and flagpole 0, playground 20, toilets 20, playground equipment 0, water supply 20, walks 0. Score 75.

Schoolhouse 190 points possible, construction 0, general repair 0, heating and ventilating 20, cloakrooms 5, extra rooms 0, auditorium 20, building insured 0. Score 45.

from the hosts of smart materials

Shown for early Spring How is one to Choose

Since such an early interest has been shown by the fashionable world in straws, as well as the usual early silks no one particular material may be said to constitute smartness, regardless of however much it may contribute to it.

There are seven fabrics that are leading the mode at present: Paris Meme Straw, Bangkok, Novelty Basket Weave Straw, French Felt, Faille, Stretched taffeta, and stretched georgette, all are shown on our second floor. A great many smart modes for both misses and matrons are shown from.....

$9.85 to $14.85

Close fitting turbans that hug the head like a bandanna are among some of the smartest shapes, irregular brims are important and to be smart the hat must fit the head perfectly, on this account you will appreciate the complete range of headsizes which we are showing.

Colors are quite certainly important and among the newest and smartest are: Lido Sand, Geranium, Cameo Blue, Byrd Blue, Tomato, Aster, Pandora Green, Sharron Rose, Cactus Rose and the Wood Violet Tones.

May we especially call your attention to the exceptionally smart collection of Matrons hats which we are showing. For the most part they are fashioned of beautiful stitched silks. All headsizes are shown in the leading color tones.
